Rev. Hugh Peasley,

Montreal.

Dear Dr. Peasley:

You may perhaps ^{have} heard of the "Constructive Quarterly" edited by Mr. Silas McBee of New York. He proposes to draw all the Churches together by having phases of their activities discussed by prominent men in each Church. I have been acting as his adviser with regard to Canada, and I have attempted to get an article from President Murray for him with regard to the movement in the matter of Church Union. At first President Murray promised, but he wrote to Mr. McBee that his work has come in upon him so suddenly that he cannot get it ready. He suggested to Mr. McBee that you might take the article, and Mr. McBee has written to me asking me to correspond with you in regard to it. He would want it for the September number if possible, and would require the copy by the middle of June. For the December number the article should be ready for the first of August. If you can write the article for him I know that it will be well done, and will meet his case.

With kind regards, I am,

Yours sincerely,

President.
